

Burda...

“Working at Burda enables you to collaborate with qualified experts from different market leading industries. Regular exchanges in professional groups and personal conversations with colleagues support me in my daily work as well as in specific topics. Therefore, you are never alone with your challenges and literally in good company.”

Christoph,
Head of Data Intelligence
jameda GmbH

People, tech and media – this is Burda. Be part of a company with great brands and even greater opportunities.

We are looking for people who are open-minded, passionate about driving innovation in diverse teams and actively push for change.

Join us. Together we can make an impact.

Any questions?
Contact our recruiting team
or visit our website for more information:

+49 89 9250 1166
www.burda.com/en/career

Burda...

Join us.

Burda...

...in good company.

Who we are

As one of Europe's leading media and tech companies Burda is home to many of the leading platforms and brands in the DACH region such as Xing, Jameda, Holidaycheck, Focus, Bunte, Elle and Instyle. With nearly 12,500 employees around the globe, we drive more than 600 digital and printed consumer media products with expertise and entrepreneurial passion. And we constantly challenge ourselves to create new products – with the goal of expanding our leading position in the market and driving innovation. Therefore we are looking for people who want to actively shape the changes taking place in the media industry.

We take our employer pledge “...in good company” seriously: From your very first day, you will see that you are working for a good company as well as in good company. Collaboration in networks is one of the central factors of our success, along with our culture based on appreciation, honesty and the freedom to develop ideas. We know that our employees' dedication and passion are the basis for our success, and so we offer a working environment in which everyone can reach their full potential.

What we offer

...for graduates:

Burda is a multifaceted place to work that opens up countless development opportunities for your career. Straight out of university we have two options for you to get started: Join one of our trainee programs or apply directly for a junior position in one of our business units.

...for students:

While at university try interning with one of our brands or write your thesis while employed as a working student. Many of our businesses provide opportunities to collaborate with specialised professionals who will advise and support you on your project.

...for professionals:

You can find job vacancies for all levels of expertise on our website. We look forward to receiving your application! www.burda.com/en/career

What we do

